DATA RELATING TO HIS DESCENDANTS

Compiled by

Guy L. Fake,

Rutherford, N.J.

December, 1943.

In considering the subject of family names it should be noted that if it is blood that counts there is no particular point in looking back through one's paternal line to the exclusion of the maternal. The mere family name carries no very great weight in this connection; Blackstone in dealing with consanguinity tells us that at seven generations we each have one hundred twenty-eight ancestors whose blood courses in our veins, at ten generations one thousand and twenty-four and at twenty upwards of one million. Surely one's lifetime is all too short to consider any appreciable number of them. What follows is directed to the descendants of John George Fake (Feick) of Pittstown, Rensselaer County, New York.

Few young people evidence any serious interest in their genealogy and I am sure I would have fallen into the same class when in my teens, were it not that I was forced to take an early interest by reason of hard knocks. In my boyhood the word "fake" had then but recently come into use as a slang word. It had not reached the dignity of dictionary definition, but I soon found that in my case it carried a challenge to fight and it seemed to my immature mind wholly inadequate to follow the thought that "sticks and stones would break my bones but names would never hurt me." The name did hurt me, at least to the extent that my thoughts soon led me to make inquiries of my father and grandfather as to why we were burdened with such a family name and then later when the proper noun Guy, also fell into the category of the unbeautiful, my cup of anguish and combativeness was full to overflowing. So, the beginning of my interest in our name was not born of the usual vanity but rather it commenced as a defense mechanism from which it soon evolved into a spirit of interested investigation prompting sporadic attempts to learn more and more concerning the families and activities of the Fakes who had gone before and as well of those now living.

If all the amusing incidents which have befallen us who bear the name Fake were gathered together they would fill a volume. My father in his travels was once introduced to a Mr. Mud as follows: "Mud meet Fake, Fake meet Mud, Fake don't get stuck by Mud and Mud don't get stuck by Fake". On meeting my father, Mr. Holstein inquired if my father was a fake whereupon father desired to know if Mr. Holstein was a cow. In shopping at the city stores our ladies are often called on to spell the name F-A-K-E and sometimes the force of it is so shocking to saleswomen that they ask in utter amazement if that is really and truly the name. On more than one occasion metropolitan papers have carried squibs calling attention to the fact that there really are people by the name of Fake and strange as it would seem they are not crooks. That reminds me of a highly respected citizen and lawyer of Brooklyn, New York, who bore the name Able Crook. On learning of my existence, Guy Fake, he is reported to have said: "Now I can die in peace for I have at last found a lawyer with a name worse than my own". In my late teens I enlisted in the Army for the Spanish-American War. The Colonel of my Regiment ran on my name in the roster and asked how it came that he had a man in his regiment with "such a hell of a pair of names". On being assured by the regimental adjutant that I was a young man of reasonably good repute in my home town, he commanded my immediate presence for inspection as a curiosity of some moment. Having polished my boots, buttons and equipment until I glittered, I appeared at the Colonel's tent, was directed into his presence, saluted, and was ordered to be at ease. Whereupon he scrutinized me closely and desired to know how I acquired my names. I informed him that I was born with one of them and the other had been thrust upon me by a Colonel of the Civil War period who was my grandfather, but that he had eased off the injury at the time by presenting me with $500 by way of damages. At dress parade a few days later my name was read out for special duty as a mounted orderly to the acting Adjutant General. Years later the Colonel told me that the Adjutant General had been incredulous concerning my name and he sent me over to him to prove it in the flesh.

Some years ago my father and my brother, Edward were traveling in the West and registered at a small town hotel. The next day the local paper announced: "Look out for yourselves two Fakes registered at the Grant House last night."

In the year 1906 several of the good people in my county asserted that the Republican Party had reached an all time low when they chose an unknown young man named Fake to run for the State Legislature and during the campaign I was generally introduced as a "Fake by name but not by nature". How I got over the hurdles of that handicap I don't know to this day. However, there is some consolation in the name. My father who was the soul of honor used to tell us that we had an opportunity which was afforded to very few boys. That if we would lead upright and honorable lives we had it in our power to change the meaning of the word fake.

Seriously, after an experience of sixty odd years with the name I rather glory in it and can truthfully say that a "rose by any other name will smell as sweet", moreover it's been lots of fun.

In the following pages it is the design to set up the limited data that has been obtained over the years relating to each family which was headed by one of the male descendants of Johann goerg feick and such additional information as I have from divers sources concerning the female lines making no pretense whatever as to the completeness of the record.

Long prior to the Revolution, in fact, in the Palatine migrations of 1709-12, there were several families by the name of Feek, Faeg, Feck, Feick, etc., who came to West Camp and later into Schoharie County, New York. The spelling of the German names by the scriveners of that period was not a fine art and the names are often far different from those their descendants now bear. Many of the men saw service as soldiers or officers in the early Border Wars and later in the Continental Army, some of the records of their services appear in a book entitled "Military Records of Schoharie County Veterans of Four Wars" by George H. Warner, 1891. I have not been able to establish any relationship between these families and our "Johann goerg feick" of Pittstown. However, there is a single reference coming very close to a connection as will appear in one of the christening records to be considered later.

There are several families now resident in the United States by the name of Fake and Fakes, who are positively not descended from our Ancestor and who, like ourselves come by the name through faulty spelling. For example, there is a large and distinguished family in Pennsylvania, most of whom reside in Lebanon and Lancaster Counties, (Pa.) They are descended from one Leonard Feege, a New York Palatine emigrant who broke away from the first settlement at West Camp near Newburgh, New York at an early date and made his way into Schoharie County, New York and later down the Susquehanna River to Lancaster County, Pa. For some years past this family has been holding an annual reunion at Ephrata, Pennsylvania. On one occasion I attended and had the great pleasure of meeting Dr. Fake of Ephrata and Mr. Earl Fake, the school principal of Reading, Pennsylvania and many others, some of these folks still speak the German known as Pennsylvania Dutch. One of the best sellers for the year 1942 was a novel by Elsie Singmaster entitled, "A High Wind Rising", which tells of the migration of the "Feges" and others from Schoharie down into Pennsylvania.

Back in 1912 there was a family residing at Ashville, North Carolina who spell their name "Fakes" and I received a letter in February of that year from Dr. B. R. Fakes of Slayden Fakes & Co., wholesale grocers which reads in part as follows'

"The writer & my Bro. at McCrory, Ark. are possibly the Drs. you refer to, as we are from Wilson Co., Tenn. some 30 miles from Nashville. Our father W. C. Fakes came to this city from Ky. My grandfather Jno. F. was twice married & raised some 21 children. I have a Bro. Jno., who resides in Lebanon, Tenn., Wilson Co., one B ro. in Los Angeles, Calif. Only 4 of the Eight Bros. of my family are living. I was at one time connected with my Uncle Jno. M. Fakes in the Corn business in New Orleans. Uncle saw the name on a Bank Bill by the name of "Fake", Pres. of a New York Bank. He had a correspondence with him & my recollection is that our ancestors came from the same place. This correspondence was some 40 years ago, so I do not recall, only that the conclusion was that the families were the same & that we had added the "s" or their side had dropped it. I graduated in Medicine directly after our Civil War between the States but soon gave it up for a mercantile life which I am still

In. Have lived here 20 years. On the 13th inst. I will be 74."

This family of "Fakes" is not connected with the line of our ancestor as far as I have been able to ascertain. The Banker above referred to was Col. John S. Fake of Lansingburgh, New York of our line. I have a note of a family residing at Fulton, Kentucky in 1912 named "Fakes" descended from a John "Fakes" of North Carolina, who was of Scotch descent. They trace back in America to 1808. Here again we find no connection.

In 1903 I received a letter from a Mr. George Fake, a jeweler of #1113 Broadway, ^{OAKLAND, CAL.} ~~same place~~, which reads in part as follows:

"Your interesting letter received some few days ago. Up till a short time ago, when I saw a piece of news copied from a Chicago paper, telling of a lawyer by the name of Fake, who had performed some kindly act to a poor family, I had thought our's the only Fake family in existence. It is a good sized family of eleven children, myself being the oldest. My Father's name, was William Secker Fake, his Father was named John Camel, and his Father was James, we think, who was born near Feltwell, in Norfolk, England, but worked as a wheelwright in Bury St., Edmunds about 1790. He later joined a local militia Co. as Sergeant, serving some years.

As far as we know my Father's brother George J. Fake was the first of the family to come to this country, arriving in San Francisco, about 1850."

This family of course tracing its line back in England is not connected with our line. When I was in London in 1924 I found several men by the name of Fake listed in the telephone book. There is a Fort on Mindenoa Lake in Mindenoa, Philippine Islands named Fort Fake. Just why the Fort is so named I do not know. These references are given here for what they may be worth to anyone who may desire to undertake further researches.

We are all greatly indebted to Mr. Abram J. Fake of the New York Bar for his intensive and careful labors in obtaining and compiling by far the larger number of the names and dates appearing herein. My own research has been directed almost entirely to our first ancestor and a few direct male lines.

Johan goerg feick

Anglicized

John George Fake

There has been a tradition in the family that our first paternal ancestor to come to America was a young man sixteen to eighteen years of age, who sailed from Holland and that he settled at Brunswick in the Town of Pittstown then in Albany County, New York, early in the Eighteenth Century where he pursued the double calling of farmer and blacksmith. That this tradition is founded on truth is amply borne out by such facts as I have succeeded in gathering. For some years I have endeavored to ascertain and fix the date and town of his birth but have been unable to do so with a satisfying degree of certainty. I will present here however what I have ascertained down to the present time in this connection, in the hope that some one may answer these two questions with greater certainty in the light of future research. There is no difficulty whatever in establishing the date of his death which occurred on October 31, 1821, as will be seen in the records that follow:

The late Bishop, William E. McLaren of the Chicago Diocese married into the Fake family. His wife was one Mary Fake, a great granddaughter of the original settler. She had given some attention to family records. Born in 1838 she was able to obtain information from others then living who have now long since passed on. Her brother, Edward was born in 1842 and died in 1879 and he also had been interested in the subject. The Bishop was the President of my college Fraternity, Phi Gamma Delta, and in 1904, he wrote me as follows, referring to his wife and her forebears: "Nicholas Fake was her grandfather, son of George Fake" (meaning John George who seems sometimes to have been referred to as George or George, Sr., dropping the first name) "who emigrated from Holland in 1733, sixteen to eighteen years of age and died in Pittstown, New York near Troy October 31, 1821." From these figures it would appear that George Fake died at the great age of one hundred four or one hundred six years. In 1906, the Bishop having passed on, I obtained further data from his son William A. McLaren, copied apparently by an amanuensis and in longhand in which the foregoing dates are repeated and then this: "He was a farmer born 1715", from which it would appear that our ancestor was one hundred and six years old when he died. In 1911 being incredulous and still trying to get more satisfying information, I wrote to Miss Helen McLaren, a daughter of the Bishop and received a letter from her in which she says her mother's "information was obtained from her brother" (her mother's brother, Edward) "but as he has been dead many years there is no way of ascertaining from what source he gathered it or how authentic it was." These figures have been copied and recopied without comparisons with the original data and inaccuracies have certainly crept in. Had an ancestor of ours reached either of the ages mentioned, I am sure there would have been a tradition of it passing down in the family, but neither my father, my grandfather nor anyone else in our family ever mentioned it in my hearing. Moreover it would seem that something more than usual notice would have been given to the death of a man of such very great age and that stories of it would have passed down in the county where he died but no such traditional information has been brought to light.

There were several early migrations of Palatine Germans from the Rhine Valley into the Hudson Valley in New York, starting in 1709-10 and running through several ensuing years. As has been noted there were families among them bearing names which would indicate that they may have been relatives of our ancestor. The history of these Palatines furnishes one of the most interesting pages in history. The better to understand these upright God-fearing people it is well to read such historical novels as D rums Along the Mohawk, Smoke Fires in Schoharie, A High Wind Rising and Cooper's Chainbearer, and more important than all, Honeyman's Essay on the Palatines appearing in the New Jersey Historical Society Quarterly, Vol. 10, No. 3, which is more complete and authentic. It was from the same section of Germany and from the same Lutheran Palatine stock that our first American ancestor came.

Most of these settlers coming in between the years 1730 and 1776 came on vessels from Holland touching England on the way over and destined for Philadelphia. Immediately on arrival the passengers were taken to the Court House in Philadelphia where they were called upon to qualify by taking an oath of allegiance to Great Britain and sign their respective names to the ship's list, thereby becoming at once subjects of the English Crown. Many, if not all, of the original records and signatures of those who thus arrived have been preserved to this day in the archives at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Many of them appear in "Rupp's 30,000 names of Emigrants in Pennsylvania". This migration in which our ancestor is found is accounted for by the devastating wars which had raged in the Rhine Valley in the years shortly preceding their arrival here. Reference to the history of the cruelties they suffered following the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, when hundreds of miles of the Rhine Valley were laid waste, and Protestants were massacred by the thousands, is all that is necessary to explain their desire to remove to a land where religious freedom and economic security might be found. Many letters had been sent back by the first German settlers and printed advertisements were also circulated in the Rhine districts, pointing out in glowing terms the ease with which land might be acquired here and praising the climate and the great fertility of the soil. The inducements to come over were glowing and more than sufficient to overcome any love they may have had for the home districts from whence they came.

Being unable to find any trace of our ancestor in the meagre ship lists of arrivals at New York, I examined Rupp's work and there ran upon two entries which attracted my attention, one of which I feel I am now able to prove with reasonable certainty, is the signature of our ancestor. The document on which his signature appears reads as follows:

"At the Court House at Philadelphia

Saturday the 14th day of September 1751

Present

The Worshipful The Mayor

Joshua Maddon Esq.

The Foreigners whose names are underwritten imported in the ship St. Andrew Captn James in England did this day take and subscribe the usual qualifications

No. 100

230 Whole Freights

7 Roman Catholics

Messrs. Wedman

10 Menonites Remndr Calvinists"

Then appear the signatures of those who could write and the cross marks of those who could not. Among the signatures we find that of "Johann goerg feick", our
pears follows:

This is set up here to show his signature as he wrote it on landing so comparisons of the signature may be made with later ones which positively we know to be his. It will be noted in the following photostatic copies of the pages of his bible, that our ancestor has signed his name no less than seven times. He starts out with "Johann goerg feick". The i, is rather indistinct as an "i", but there is a speck above the third letter which undoubtedly is a dot. The i's and e's however are much alike. In the tenth line from the top of the page he writes his name "Johann goerg feck". Examining the baptismal records in the bible it is seen that he signs four times as "Johann goerg feck" and once as "goerg feck". Note the flourish in writing the k at the end of his name, and note the same on his signature on the ship list. Also note the lack of capital letters in writing his middle and last names in each instance.

On a deed dated 1793 made by him to his son Nicholas and now in my possession, he signs as grantor, "Johann goerg feck". The English speaking scrivener wrote his name in the body of the instrument as "George Fake", leaving out his first name and Anglicizing the last. In the certificate of acknowledgement it is written "Feak".

His son George is a witness to the deed and he signs his name in a beautiful hand "George Fake Junr." Thus we find our name, Fake, today, when undoubtedly it was correctly spelled, "Feick", by our ancestor when he landed. This deed convinces me that he was generally known, not by his first name, but by his second name "George". His powder horn is further evidence to this effect as is also the record of his service in the Revolution.

It is interesting to digress at this point to note that on that September Saturday in 1751, when our ancestor first put foot on these shores at Philadelphia, he found himself in the largest settlement then in America, a community with a population of about thirteen or fourteen thousand people, many of whom were negro slaves. Today that city has a population of upwards of one million nine hundred thousand. In 1750 the entire population of the colonies was but one million three hundred seventy thousand, a fifth of whom were slaves, while today the population is upwards of 130 million. The land to the westward beyond a distance of eighty or ninety miles back from the Atlantic seaboard stretched away to the Pacific Ocean, a primeval wilderness untouched by the hand of man.

George Washington was at the time a young man nineteen years of age, about the same age as our ancestor, Thomas Jefferson was a boy of nine and Alexander Hamilton was not yet born. George II, a native of Germany was on the English throne speaking German and quite unable to understand English. Charles Theodore of the Sulzbach line was the Elector of the Palatinate from whence I believe our ancestor came. This section of Germany belonged at the time to the Rhenish circle and was bounded by Mainz, Katzenellenbogen, Wurtemberg, Baden, Alsace, Lorraine and Treves. It took in the principality of Simmern, the duchy of Zweibrucken and half of the County of Sponheim, and also the principalities of Veldenz and Lautern. It was at Becherbach that our ancestor says in his bible he was given his name, which I interpret as being the place of his birth and baptism. Not until very recently was I able to locate any such place name in all of Germany and then fortunately or unfortunately, I found two. They are both very small villages listed in a publication issued out of Switzerland for the use of the international cable companies entitled "Nomenclature Des Bureaux Telegraphiques". There we find a Becherbach near Speyer (Eng. Spires) and a Becherbach near Koblenz (Eng. Coblenz). I lean to the view that our ancestor came from the Becherbach near Speyer. Research in the Lutheran Church baptismal records of these places may give the answer as to which of the two was the birthplace of our ancestor. Let us hope that our Army may soon blast hell out of whichever it is but save only the records in that old Lutheran Church or Dom where they may be found when the Nazis are wiped out and the people of Germany are forced once and for all to function as civilized beings. Their history indicates however that it will take a century or more to make an enlightened people of them. The best of their God-fearing, liberty-loving and sensible men and women left Germany long since to come over here and aid in the building of a free America as our ancestor did.

The petty and unconscionable rulers of the Germany of 1751 were engaged in pressing young men into military service and selling them into the armies of foreign rulers to fight in wars in distant places involving issues concerning which they usually had no knowledge or compelling them to fight for the supremacy of dictators and tyrants for whom they had nothing but loathing and disgust. Three years only had passed since the Peace of Aix-la-Chapelle ending the war of the Austrian Succession and already things were making up for the Seven Years War between Frederick the great and Maria Theresa with its counterpart here in our French and Indian War.

This war it will be remembered, ran from 1756 to the Peace of Paris in 1763. Undoubtedly the young "Johann Georg Felck" would have been pressed into military service had he remained in the fatherland much beyond his sixteenth birthday and we may well picture him as being filled with a spirit of rebellion because of the cruelties his forebears had suffered. The family undoubtedly had been there in the Rhine Valley for generations. They had suffered the hardships of the Thirty Years War between the Protestants and the Catholics starting in 1618 and ending with the Peace of Westphalia in 1648. Then had followed the wars of Louis XIV including the war respecting the Spanish Netherlands 1667-1668; The war with Holland 1672-1678; the war against the Palatines 1689-1697 and the war of the Spanish Succession 1701-1714. Then followed numerous minor outbreaks and the war of the Austrian Succession ending in 1748.

Of the war of the Palatinate, the historian, Meyers, says in his Outlines: "Louis ordered that country to be turned into a desert. The Huns of Attila could not have carried out more relentlessly the barbarous command than did the soldiers of Louis. Churches and Abbeys, palaces and cottages, villas and cities, were all given to the flames. Among the places laid in ruins were the historic towns of Heidelberg, Spires and Worms. Even fruit-trees, vines and crops were destroyed. The homeless peasants, to the number of a hundred thousand, wandered about in abject misery, imprecating the vengeance of Heaven upon the heartless tyrant who had caused their ruin." Do we need more to tell us why the Palatines were called the "Poor Palatines", or why our young ancestor was among those shortly to leave such a country and make their way down the Rhine to Rotterdam and thence over the Atlantic to the City of Brotherly Love?

Nothing has come down to us as to how long Johann goerg feick remained in Philadelphia nor have we any information as to how he journeyed from there up to Brunswick in Albany County. There were no connecting roads between Philadelphia and New York at that early date, and while he may have made his way overland with a party going toward New York, or up the Susquehanna Valley, the chances are that he made the trip by water to New York as was common at the time, and thence up the Hudson by sloop. Nor was there any connected road at that time between New York and Albany. It was not until about 1785, that a road was opened up the Hudson. We do know however that on December 14 1756, five years after his arrival, he sat down at Brunswick in Pittstown Township, Rensselaer County, New York, with his Martin Luther German Bible before him and in a spirit of religious fervor wrote as follows:

#1. LITERAL TRANSLATION:

Johann (John) Gorg (evidently George) Feick am I it named, in Heaven is my Fatherland. Here (small) book what will I (to) you say when one comes and will you carry away.
So say (sprech?) I, lay in good rest. I Mr. Johann (John Gorg Feck), at Becherbach was I so named. In Heaven is my Fatherland, Brunswick, the 14 December, in the 1756.

MEANING:

I am named John George Feick,
In Heaven is my home.
Come, book, what shall I say to you,
If anyone comes to carry you away.
So I say rest in peace,
I am Mr. John George Feck,
I was so named at Becherbach
In Heaven is my home.
Brunswick, December 14, 1756.

The next record we have of his handwriting appears in his bible on July 15th, 1764, reproduced later herein, at which time his first child Christina was born. Two years after this event, he bought the farm where he lived most of his life and where he died on October 31, 1821. The deed for this property was made by Bastian Keyser and wife of "Pagkipsich" in Dutches County, husbandman, to George "Fages" of Albany County, husbandman. Dated August 22, 1766, but not acknowledged until October 11, 1791, and recorded in Book 1 of Deeds for Rensselaer County on pages 19, etc., on October 3, 1792. The consideration was 135 pounds current New York money. The description recites that the land is part of tract located "in the County of Albany on the East side of Hudsons River near a place called Tomhannock" containing 1847 acres. The mete and bound description of the part conveyed to our ancestor reads as follows: "Begins at the Northwest corner of land this day be me released to Mathew Degardino and runs from thence South 83 ~~chan~~ins, thence North 86 degrees West 25 chains, thence North 78 chains and 75 links, thence North 86 degrees East 25 chains to the place where it first began and containing 200 acres of land more or less." The grantor, Keyser, had bought the property on June 5, of the same year, 1766, from Thomas Clark of New York City, and he signed his name Sebastian Keyserick not Keyser as the English scrivener spells the name in the body of the instrument.

Those interested in the covenants and conditions of the old deeds of that period will note that it covers "all and singular the woods and underwoods, trees, timber, fidings, pastures, meadows, marshes, swamps, ponds, holes, rivers, rivulets, runs and streams of water, fishing, fowling, hawking and hunting, mines and minerals, gold and silver mines excepted and one-fourth part of all other minerals also excepted and the reversion and reversions, rents, issues and profits thereof and any part and parcel thereof" * * * * "excepting what is above excepted and the Kings quit rents which are now and shall hereafter grow due for the said two hundred acres," etc., and etc.

This property, (see pictures on the next two pages), now, in 1943, comprises two farms and was so operated prior to the death of Johann goerg feick as reference to his will discloses. In 1941, I located this property and found the westerly one-half owned and occupied by a Mr. Frank Madigan and the easterly one-half owned by Mr. Clement Subcleff and his wife.

It was indeed fortunate for our ancestor and his family that he did not settle on lands a few miles to the east in the Hampshire Grants where they would have suffered a questionable title and found themselves mixed up in the armed rebellion incident to those grants. It was also fortunate that they did not settle in the Manor of Rensselaerwyck, directly to the south, because there they would have later been in the midst of the New York Rent War. The history of the Hampshire Grants, just over the Vermont Line, and the records of the New York State

Rent war make interesting and instructive reading, throwing light on some of the difficulties incident to the land titles of that period and evidencing in the settlers, a love of liberty and a passionate desire for the private ownership of land free of all burdens and entailments.

The above shows the westerly one-half of the original Fake farm lying in Schaghticoke Township now occupied by Frank Madigan. This property and the one shown on the next page, front on a road known in early days as the Northern Turnpike or road from Buskirk's Bridge to Stone Arabia (later Lansingburgh) now in 1943 the road is known as Route 40-A. See "The Chain Bearer" by Fenimore Cooper for a description of a tavern of the period of 1774 on the Great Northern Turnpike. Probably the same road.

This picture shows the easterly one-half of the original Fake farm lying in Pittstown Township now occupied by the Subcleffs. The residence of our ancestor was on this site and burned down many years ago. It was here that he died on October 31, 1821.

There is an old one-story abandoned school house (1941) opposite the driveway leading into the premises shown on the next page. The division line between the Towns of Schaghticoke and Pittstown runs at the right of the above picture and it forms to this day the division line between the two farms as well as the line between the two towns. This property and the one shown on the preceding page is referred to in our ancestor's will as partly in Schaghticoke and partly in Pittstown.

In March of 1904 I received a letter from Mr. Charles B. McMurray of Lansingburgh in which he refers to the property shown in the foregoing photographs. He wrote: "The family was one of importance and position and must have been for those days wealthy. About twenty years ago, I remember being driven somewhere between here and Housick Falls (I think) to the old homestead and seeing the slave cabins, etc., my impression is that this old house was soon after destroyed by fire. My mother had two old negresses, pensioners, a mother and a daughter long since dead. The mother was supposed to be over 100 years old, and she was the daughter of one of the slaves."

In another letter addressed to me on February 20, 1906, he wrote: "I might say in closing that I have seen the old slave houses and have an old wrought iron candle stick which was used in their quarters. In fact an old negress did not die until I was about ten years old. I think she was one of the slaves of the Fake family and had always been taken care of by my grandfather and mother who gave her a nice little two story brick house and lot and provided her with all the money she needed until her death."

Whether the Blacksmith Shop of Johann goerg was located on this property I do not know. In 1768 he bought a tract of twenty acres at Tomhannock from John Bastian Kyserrick, Liber⁷/of Deeds, Albany County page 580. In this deed he is referred to as a "blacksmith yeoman". I have not as yet located this property. He also owned considerable other property in that section also hundreds of acres in Montgomery= County and in Ontario County, New York.

Upon his death George Fake (Johann goerg feick) left the following last will and testament which was probated in Rensselaer County in the year 1822:

"In the name of God Amen I George Fake of Pittstown in the County of Rensselaer & State of New York do make and publish this my last Will & Testament in manner following that is to say

First I will and devise and bequeath unto my daughter in law Olive Fake widow of my son Jacob Fake deceased one third part of the half of the farm on which I now live situate partly in the town of Schaghticoke & partly in the town of Pittstown in the County aforesaid to be by her possessed and improved during her natural life or while she continues the widow of Jacob Fake deceased

Second I will devise & bequeath unto the Children of my said son Jacob Fake Deceased the remaining two thirds of the half of the farm on which I now live situate in the towns of Pittstown & Schaghticoke aforesaid to be equally divided between them when the youngest of the said Children shall have arrived at the age of twenty one years and if any of the said Children shall decease before they arrive to the age of twenty one years then his or her part or proportion shall go to the survivor or survivors.

Third I will & bequeath unto my daughter in Law Clive Fake aforesaid while she continues a widow the full & entire profits of the half of the said farm on which I now live as a consideration for the support and maintenance of my aforesaid Grandchildren until the youngest of the said Children shall arrive to the age of twenty one years.

Fourth I will & bequeath unto the children of my said son Jacob Fake Deceased the third part of the half of the farm hereinbefore Willed to Clive Fake their mother to be equally divided among the said Children of the said Jacob or the survivors of the said Children when the youngest of the said Children shall have arrived to the age of twenty one years But this devise not to take effect or be operative until the decease of the said Clive Fake widow of my son Jacob Fake Deceased unless the said Clive Fake should again marry or contract matrimony in which case the estate hereby vested in her for life or during her widowhood shall cease & the same enure to the benefit of her children heirs of my son Jacob Fake Deceased immediately after the said marriage is contracted.

Fifth I give & bequeath unto my son Adam Fake & the children of my said son Jacob Fake all the personal property I may be possessed of at the time of my decease one half of the same to go to my son Adam Fake & the other half to the children of my said son Jacob Fake Deceased.

Lastly I appoint George Fake Jr of the town of Pittstown & Henry Dator of the town of Brunswick both of the County of Rensselaer aforesaid Executors of this my last Will & Testament hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this twenty first day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventeen.

Prior to the making of this will the testator always signed his name in a legible hand. No doubt at the time the will was executed he was ill or had become old and feeble and thus obliged to sign by mark.

After the death of George Fake, George Fake, Jr., filed an inventory part of which is in the following language, spelling and punctuation: 1621970

“One Note signed by George Fake Jnr Dated the Eleventh Day pf February 1815 of the sum of one hundred thirty Five Dollars Interest Five P C Paid on said Note the sum of Eighteen Dollars the 15th of January 1817 this Note was Given on Conditions by George Fake the money was Due From Nicholas Fake but Nicholas Living some Distance From his Father his Father Requested his son George to Give his Note For the money Cause he Where living Near his Father so if he should Want any money that he Could send any Day to his son George For Some George asking his Father Several times By the Request of his Brother Nichblas to Give up the Note to him on account of his Father Never had Given him anything. This dispute seems to have terminated in an allowance of 52¢ to the petitioner and $10.35 to the heirs of Jacob, thus closing as far as the law could, what evidently was an old fashioned family quarrel over money matters. It gives us no clue however as to what happened to the large holdings of real estate which he had owned in his life time or what became of the proceeds of their sales.

If it were possible to project ourselves back to those early years in the wilderness between 1751 and 1760 when our youthful ancestor was finishing out his apprenticeship at some log-cabin blacksmith shop in the region of Tomhannock, and courting the young Maria Elizabeth Loanes (Lohnes), we would be amazed at the crudities of their surroundings and the complete absence of the things which we look upon today as absolute necessities. Here and there, miles apart, a settler had hewed out an open space and rolled up a log-cabin, among them the Loanes (Lohnes) family, and every year a few more settlers filtered in. Johannes Knickerbocker had taken over a tract of some sixty acres and erected a log-cabin at Old Schaghticoke on the site of the present Knickerbocker brick mansion, a few miles north of our ancestor's farm, and was soon joined by other Dutch families who came in from Albany. A few settlers of German origin had settled at Brunswick and had built a log-cabin church at that place. The lands which now comprise the region of Schaghticoke, Tomhannock, Brunswick and the other settlements in Pittstown and Schaghticoke Townships were, like practically all of New York State at that time, covered with a growth of primeval pines. Watering the region were numerous streams; The Tomhannock Creek and its tributaries; the Hoosac River with its many tributaries reaching over into Vermont and Massachusetts and not far to the Westward the placid Hudson flowed to the sea with no settlements of any size on its shores, Albany at the time being a settlement of about two thousand and New York City from five to eight thousand.

Grace Greylock Niles in her interesting book, "The Hoosac Valley, Its Legends and Its History", tells us much of the Indians of that section in those early days and preserves for us a fine picture of the Witenagemot Oak, planted by the white settlers and the Indians in 1676, in commemoration of a peace treaty made with the Indian chiefs Sogun and Magun of the Hoosac tribe, after their victory over the Mohawks. Its weathered and rotting trunk with a few gaunt branches were all that remained of this tree when I visited the site on the Knickerbocker farm in 1941. It stands three or four miles north of our ancestor's place.

Indians still roamed the region when our ancestor arrived and they raided the settlers in that vicinity on more than one occasion before the Revolution. When Burgoyne advanced down the Hudson with his Indians in 1777, we are told that the settlers hurriedly removed to Albany, Williamstown and Stockbridge to avoid the savages. Nothing has come down to us as to where the family of our ancestor found refuge, but we do know that he was a soldier in the Continental Army in the regiment of Colonel Peter Yates at the time. This regiment was made up of men beyond military age and I imagine that he was more interested in his family, his crops, his horses and cattle, and his blacksmith shop, than in the life of a soldier. His appearances in actual conflicts, as far as I have been able to ascertain, were occasioned only on alarms when the farmers went into battle in their homespun, armed with their hunting knives, flintlock rifles and powder horns and proceeded to such victories as the Battle of Bennington which by the way, was fought a very short distance to the Northeast of his place and the firing could easily have been heard at his farm. It should be remembered that the battle of Bennington was fought near Cambridge in New York State, not in Bennington, Vermont.

The log-cabins of the first settlers were very uninviting when based on our present day standards. Few if any of them had glass windows or wooden floors. The doors were of skins or ill fitting hand hewn logs. The fireplace, often poorly constructed, furnished the only source of heat and there the wife prepared all the meals. Boiling was done in pots "suspended over a wood fire from a crane. Frying or broiling was best accomplished in a spider set on coals in front of the fireplace. Roasts were turned and browned on a spit. Bread, cakes, and all baked goods came from tin ovens set in front of the fireplace. A bake kettle set on coals with coals heaped on the lid gave quality which the modern oven cannot attain. All-night corn pone so baked sounds most appetizing. The wood used in fireplaces, either for cooking or for warming houses, was cut three feet long and rested on heavy andirons. *Logs eighteen to twenty inches in diameter rested on andirons of flat stones as back logs. Cook stoves, which came into use about 1850, did not supplant the fireplace cooking for two or three decades". Such is the account by Hedrick in his, History of Agriculture In The State of New York. He also tells us that the housewives of the period had learned from the Indians how to cook Indian corn, pumpkins, squashes and beans and how to dry wild plums, huckleberries, raspberries, blackberries, corn, beans, pumpkin and squash, and that these formed part of every meal in winter furnishing appetizers, vitamins, and regulators.

Fenimore Cooper in his, Chainbearer, tells of a tavern on the Great Northern road in 1774. Johann goerg feick's farm fronted on the Northern Turnpike, probably the same road Cooper had in mind. The wife of the tavern keeper addressed the hero of Cooper's novel as follows; and I quote: "You are Lucky Major Littlepage, she said, in not having come among us in one of our starving times - and awful times they be, if a body may say what she thinks on 'em".

"Starvation is a serious matter at anytime" 'I answered, though I did not know you were ever reduced to such difficulties in a country as rich and abundant as this.'

'Of what use is riches and abundance if a man will do nothing but fish and shoot? I've seen the day when there wasn't a mouthful to eat in this house, but a dozen or two of squabs, a string of brook trout, and maybe a deer, or a salmon from the one of the lakes.'

'A little bread would have been a welcome addition to such a meal.'

'Oh! As for bread, I count that for nothin! We always have bread and potatoes enough: but I hold a family to be in a desperate way, when the mother can see the bottom of the pork-barrel. Give me the children that's raised on a good sound pork, afore all the game in the country. Game's good as a relish, and so's bread; but pork is the staff of life! To have good pork, a body must have good corn; and good corn needs hoeing: and a hoe isn't a fish pole, or gun. No, My children I calkerlate to bring up on pork, with just as much bread and butter as they may want! "This was American poverty as it existed in 1784."

The furniture of the first cabins consisted of a slab table, peg-legged benches or stools and bunks or beds built on the side walls or in the loft of the one room. The dishes were of wood, spoons also were mostly of wood, although here and there pewter spoons were in use. In some instances a few pewter dishes and steel knives and forks might be found. The printed matter consisted of a bible and perhaps a catechism which had the multiplication tables in the back of it as our ancestor's has. The agricultural implements of the time were of the crudest sort. The steel plow had not yet been thought of, rough clumsy wooden plows were used and more often the shares or mould boards were not even iron shod and the work of clearing the woodlands and bringing the land into cultivation presented Herculean tasks for men of brawn and muscle. Only the fittest survived. "It took about a year for a good woodsman to chop, log, plow, and sow ten acres of forest land." The settlers aided each other in logging which gave rise to the expression of "log-rolling" in American politics. The logs were burned and ten acres would produce about a ton of potash which the settler could sell for $200, often his first cash return. This was a goodly sum in those days and one who had a capital of $150, after his farm was paid for was rated well-to-do. Many settlers started with little or nothing. Our ancestor however, being a blacksmith, undoubtedly had acquired some independence financially before his marriage and judging from what we know of his land operations extending well out beyond the Hudson into the then West, he must have been among the more successful and we may well conjecture that not many years elapsed before he abandoned his earlier cabin and erected a pretentious homestead for his fast increasing family.

There is a story which is handed down as applying to most of the early settlements in New York. It strongly implies that some of our ancestors suffered with claustrophobia:-

A soldier left his wife and children and went away in the Continental Army. After several years of military service with Washington he walked home from Philadelphia and after greeting his wife and children, he looked out over the valley and spied a clearing with a cabin erected some eight or ten miles off in the distance. Contemplating it for a while he turned to his wife and said: "Mary, commence to pack up, we'r movin' out for Kentuck in the morning. This country is altogether too thickly populated to bring up a family in."

On a visit to Stensselaer County in the year 1905, I had the very great pleasure of meeting Mr. Alfred W. McMurray then a gentleman well along in years. His wife, Augusta E. was the daughter of Colonel John S. Fake, she had passed on in 1894, so I was too late to meet her. She and her father, the Colonel, had taken a greater interest in preserving family records and heirlooms than any of the other descendants of Johann goerg feick and the McMurrays, Alfred W. and his son Charles B. had carried on in the same fine tradition. You may imagine my delight then when they showed me for the first time the family bible of Johann goerg feick with the births and christenings of his children noted therein in his own Plattdeutsch handwriting. Their home at Lansingburgh, evidenced the culture and refinement of generations of solid American stock. There they had the tall mahogany clock of Johann goerg feick made by "Shuban Ling" some time between 1750 and 1760. The works are of brass and noted in the clock are the dates when it was repaired, August 23, 1784, July 10, 1847, June 25, 1881 and January 4, 1895, oiled November 15, 1906, January 30, 1910 and November 30, 1911. There they also have life-size oil paintings of George Fake, Jr. and his wife and also of Colonel John S. Fake. They also had the powder horn and the bible, both of which will be described later.

The mahogany secretary of Colonel John S. Fake and his bedstead of the same wood furnish examples of the finest workmanship and design of their period. The bible of George Fake, Jr., and the many other books and manuscripts in that home take one back over the years to the landing of the pilgrims on Plymouth Rock in 1620.

On being shown the powder horn of our ancestor for the first time back in 1905, I remarked "I would give my right arm to own that horn". Calling at the McMurrays again in 1941, I was told I used the same expression again and well I might have for I must confess that I have had a burning desire to possess that horn, from my early boyhood, and now through the kindness of Mrs. Eleanor McMurray, widow of Charles B. McMurray, and the kindness also of her daughter Augusta, who consented, I have possession of the horn until my death when it will pass to the Rensselaer County Historical Society, and fortunately, my arm was not lost in the transfer.

THE BIBLE

The Bible of Johann goerg feick (Fake) is something to conjure with in wondering about its antecedents. It is a Martin Luther edition printed in German at Amsterdam, Holland in the year 1673. It is not a large book. It measures only 3-1/4 inches wide, 6 inches long and 3 inches thick. Its wooden covers are bound with leather and it closes with a hand-made brass clasp. Pressed into the leather is "D.L.C. 1. 6. 8. 7." What this connotes aside from the year 1687 is something to guess about.

Divine Book, my sweetest love,
O Bible, my sweetheart and splendor
May kings and kingdoms love their wealth,
I have the Sacred Bible as my wealth,
I shall always love the Bible, the Sacred Bible I shall always love.

Chaste love, the Bible, holy love of the Bible.
The Bible will be my work, it will also be my hobby.
Sweet it will be to live in the Bible, sweet to die
O Christ! May I live and die blessed in the Bible.
The Holy Bible has you, gives you and teaches you,

MEANING:

On July 9th, 1782 a son was born and baptised Petteruss (meant for Petrus, meaning Peter) on July 11th. His godfather was Petter (Peter) Feck and his godmother was Maria (last name may be either Couteryman, Conterymen, Louteryman or Lonterymen.)

NOTE:

Who was this Peter Feck? There was one of that name in what is now Schoharie County who must have been about the age of the father of the above child. Was he related to the Rensselaer County Fakes? My mother often told of talking with a lady whose maiden name was Feck residing near Middleburgh, New York, who said the Fakes of Montgomery County and the Fecks of Schoharie County were the same family. See "Schoharie County Veterans" page 40.

I have found no Peter Feck or Feck other than this child in the Rensselaer section of Albany County in those days. No deeds or church membership.

Peter Feck of Schoharie was a soldier in the Revolution. Hostilities there ended in November 1781, so he might have gone over to visit John George in 1782. One of Peter Feck's grandchildren was Catherine E. Mann and I believe she is the one my mother spoke of.

THE POWDER HORN

This horn is mounted on a blue velvet covered crescent-shaped base and the richness of the color which age has produced in the horn and its carvings stand out in subdued beauty against the blue background. Aside from its sentimental value to us in whose veins flows the blood of the ancestor who carried it in early colonial days, it possesses a great intrinsic value as a collector's piece and to the lover of art and beauty it carries still further value. It is the finest specimen I have ever seen.

Carved at the top or neck of the horn is a blacksmith's anvil with hammer and tongs crossed above it, then follows next below, the inscription, "Dieses Horn Georg Feck Gehort Mier". Then the British Royal Coat of Arms most beautifully and skillfully done bearing the motto of the Prince of Wales "Honi soit qui mal y pense" (shamed be he who thinks evil of it). Then follows "Dieu et mon droit" (God and my right), two cannon mounted on wheels, two pyramids of cannon balls, three drums, two trumpets, two battle-axes, one musket, two lances or spears and four flags or banners. Under all this appears what are apparently the names of the makers "Gethan Von Mier Carolus Alexander Scherber anno 1762". When George Fake obtained this horn is not known at this writing. The earliest authentic record of service by him that I have been able to find, is in the year 1767 when he was a private under Captain Thomas Ackerson in the Albany County Militia. There is a dearth of records covering this early period in Albany County, but no able bodied man could have lived there very long in those days without being attached to a local military organization as a matter of self preservation. During the Revolution he served as a member of the 14th Albany County Regiment under Colonel Peter Yates as appears by reference to Vol. 5 pages 61 and 62 of the Treasurer's Certificates.

"November 22, 1906.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that an entry on page 61 of a manuscript volume entitled "Certificate of Treasurer, vol. 5" in the custody of Regents of the University of the State of New York, in the State Library, shows that in pursuance of an act passed April 27, 1784, entitled "An act for the settlement of the pay of the Levies and Militia, for their service in the late war, and for other purposes therein mentioned,": a certificate for 1 lb. 2s. 6d. numbered 23813, and bearing interest from 1 June 1780, was issued for the service of Geo. Fakes as a private under Capt. Corns.

W. V. D. Burgh in Col. Peter Yates'

(Hoosick and Schaghticoke districts):

also, that a similar entry on page 62 of the said volume shows that a certificate for 12s. 11d. numbered 23904, and bearing interest from 22 Oct. 1780, was issued for the service of Geo. Fakes as a private under C apt. Corns. W.

Vandenburgh in the said regiment, also,
that an entry on page 122 of the "Minutes of the Council of Appointment, vol. 1", a manuscript volume in the custody of the said State Library, shows that the above company were Associated Exempts of

1. John George Fake, spelled by him, Johann goerg feick, Feek or feck and on at least one occasion in 1803, fack, was born in Becherbach near Spires or a village of the same name near Coblenz, both in the Rhine Valley, in Germany, probably some time between 1733 and 1735, and died at Pittstown in Rensselaer County, New York on October 31, 1821. He married Maria Elizabeth Loanes or Lohans of that place and she died March 25, 1806. There were eleven children born of this marriage:-

| 11. Adam | b. July 31, 1788 | d. May 10, 1868 |
| 12. Maria | b. June 29, 1792 | d. |

The span of the life of the head of this family, took him through the period of the French and Indian War, the American Revolution and the War of 1812, and covered the administrations of Presidents Washington, Adams, Jefferson, and Madison and well into the administration of President Monroe. He therefore saw the early struggles, the birth, and the early years of our growth under the Constitution. He was a Whig, a Federalist, a follower of Hamilton in Politics and a Lutheran in Religion and would be classified today as a rugged individualist, which it is hoped his descendants and a strong majority of others may emulate now and to the end of time, Communists, Socialists, New Dealers and other impractical stargazers to the contrary notwithstanding. We find him and his wife listed among the earliest members of the Gilead Lutheran Church at Brunswick. The census taker looked in on him for the first census of 1790, and reported him as:- "George Feck", the head of a family at Pittstown, consisting of 2 white males, above the age of 16, 4 male children under 16 and 4 females. There were 10 children at that time and these figures include the husband and wife so it would appear that two of the children had left home when the census was taken.

Over the years attempts have been made to locate the cemetery in which our ancestor and his wife were buried but quite without success. At a very early time there was a cemetery about a quarter of a mile north of our ancestor's farm. It had been cut out of the Green farm years before. The site is now on the farm owned by one Schmidt and at this writing but few headstones remain. It is said that several of the old headstones now are used as part of the floor of Schmidt's cow stable and others were broken up in concrete and form part of the foundation walls of his horse stable. In this cemetery, a neighbor, Jesse Finne and his wife are buried and our ancestor's grave is probably there also. Perhaps the stones which remain intact in the cow stable may settle the question if we can have them lifted.

2. Christina Fake, was born at Brunswick in the Town of Pittstown, New York, July 15, 1764 and died August 28th, 1850, age 86 years and 23 days. She married Henry Dater of Dutchess County, New York in the Gilead Lutheran Church at Center Brunswick, New York. I may not have a complete record of the children of this marriage but I do have the following:-

John	b.	d.
Henry	b. Feb. 12, 1801	d.
Hannah	b.	d.
Philip	b.	d.
Katherine	b.	d. (Married David Coons)
Mary	b.	d. (Married Jacob Springer)

This family lived at Brunswick and were members of Gilead Lutheran Church. Their son Henry Married Caty Snyder January 27, 1822 and they had the following children:

Harriet b. Mar. 24, 1823 d. Feb. 20, 1910
(Married John R. Hayner)

Jacob b. Oct. 12, 1825 d.
(Married Eliza Wetsel)

Leanny Maria b. April 12, 1828 d. April 7, 1835

Elizabeth	b. July 8, 1831 d. Aug. 20, 1857
Mary Christina	b. Dec. 12, 1835 d. Feb. 17, 1838 (Married George Derrick)
Calvin	b. Dec. 5, 1838 d. May 5, 1932 (Married Hattie C. Barry)
John	b. May 11, 1836 d. Mar. 5, 1893 (Married Almira Wetsel)
Mary	b. May 21, 1841 d. Jan. 30, 1921
Henry	b. Nov. 13, 1844 d. Oct. 8, 1917 (Married Minnie Hall)

Calvin Dater lived to a ripe old age. On December 6, 1931 at the age of 93 he sang the "Lost Chord" in the Gilead Church and in 1925 he was said to be the oldest vocal broadcaster in America if not in the world. The New York Times of May 6, 1932 carried the following when he died:

CALVIN DATER

"Troy, N; Y. May 5 (AP) - Calvin Dater, 94, who claimed to be the oldest radio singer, died today at the home in which he lived alone. Mr. Dater until a few days ago broadcast programs of old-time ballads from a Troy radio station."

Note: I am indebted to Mr. Abram J. Fake (Faiche) for the data relating to 2, Christina and her descendants. He obtained it from Calvin Dater and bibles in Calvin's possession.

3. John George Fake Jr., was born on his father's farm on the Northern Turnpike near Tomhannock in the Town of Pittstown, New York on February 16th, 1766 and died in his ninety-first year on February 21, 1856. He married Catherine Sneider the 12th of August 1787. The following entry appears in his family bible:

"Geo Fake took to wife Catha the 12th day of August 1787. She was aged seventeen years three months and fifteen days and the age of Geo Fake was twenty-one years five months and twenty-seven days". There were six children of this marriage:

13. Mary Elizabeth b. Mar. 10, 1795 d. Feb. 13, 1869

14. Catherine b. Apr. 1, 1797 d.

15. George Fake b. Feb. 6, 1799 d.

16. John S. b. Nov. 30, 1800 d. Jan. 11, 1876

17. Jacob b. Jan. 19, 1804 d. Sep. 16, 1861

18. Henry b. Mar. 12, 1806 d. Dec. 31, 1884

The father of this family lived his entire life and raised his family at Pittstown, where he died. He was a man who took an active interest in public affairs. In "Landmarks of Rensselaer County" it appears that he was elected as one of the school committee of his town at the annual meeting in 1813 and later in 1816 he was Supervisor of the town.

There are no official records of the militia organizations in that part of the state from the close of the Revolution until 1802. It is known however that such organizations did exist prior to the latter date. He was but ten years of age in 1776 and seventeen when the peace treaty of 1783 was signed. Hostilities had eased long before that in his neighborhood so we must assume that he played no very active part in the Revolution. The McMurrays have life size oil paintings of George Fake Jr. and his wife Catherine, which still remain in their original frames. They also have his bible with his family records therein.

He was a wealthy farmer and speculated in real estate on a large scale. In politics he was a Whig and a Federalist like his father. He and his wife are both listed as members of the Gilead Lutheran Church at Brunswick, now Centre Brunswick. The clock and the bible and powder horn of John George Fake (1) came into his possession after his father's death and passed to his son Colonel John S. Fake with the paintings, bible and horn above mentioned.

4. Nicholas Fake was born on his father's farm on the Northern Turnpike near Tomhannock, in the Town of Pittstown, Rensselaer County, New York, on May 31, 1768 and died at Fords Bush, Minden, Montgomery County, New York in his 85th year on May 3, 1852. He married Mary Elizabeth Freiot or Frile. Her tombstone gives the latter family name and Bishop McLaren's records have it as Freict. She was born March 29th, 1770 and died at Fords Bush on Christmas Day, December 25, 1851, in her 68th year. They are both buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery at that place. It may be that he married twice but no report of two marriages has come down to us. The difference in the spelling of the wife's family name is probably accounted for by erroneous spelling in writing it without reference to the tombstone. We do not have the date of his marriage at this writing. We do know however that he remained in Pittstown until the year 1796 when he purchased a farm at Fords Bush from his father (1) and moved over there. He had the following children:

|------------|------------------|-------------------|
| 19. George | b. Aug. 23, 1791 | d. April 21, 1846 |
| 20. Joseph | b. Oct. 4, 1794 | d. Aug. 25, 1879 |
| 21. John | b. Feb. 14, 1797 | d. Dec. 1, 1883 |
| 22. Peter | b. Apr. 19, 1800 | d. Dec. 6, 1876 |
| 23. Jacob | b. Aug. 3, 1802 | d. Apr. 29, 1877 |
| 24. Isaac | b. Apr. 26, 1805 | d. Mar. 25, 1885 |
| 25. Hannah | b. Aug. 1, 1807 | d. Dec. 12, 1865 |
| 26. Henry | b. Oct. 4, 1809 | d. |

In Book 4 of Deeds in Montgomery County at page 507, there is a deed made by Jacob Lansing Jr. to George Fake (1) dated July 20, 1790, by this deed he became seized of a part of a tract of land on the south side of the Mohawk River near Canajoharie which originally contained 5000 acres granted by letters patent under the Great Seal of the Colony of New York in 1753 to Jacob Lansing and two other persons. The part purchased by George (1) comprised some 218 acres known as lot 30 of the division and partition, for which he paid 218 pounds New York Currency. On January 2, 1796 by Deed 5-240, he sold 109 acres thereof to his son Nicholas (4) for 150 pounds of the same currency. This farm remained in the possession and occupancy of Nicholas (4) until he died and it was here that he reared his family.

His first home on the tract was a log-cabin erected shortly before he moved over from Tomhannock with his family in 1796. It was not long however before he built a modest but substantial farm house which remains standing today (1942) in a weathered condition with its several additions and mammoth barns. He deeded this farm to his son Jacob (23) on January 10, 1837 and Jacob deeded a life estate therein back to his father. This farm remained in the ownership of the family for 118 years or until the year 1908, when the then numerous heirs joined in a deed passing title to an outsider.

The Lutheran Church at Fords Bush was organized April 30, 1836. The first services were held there in a school house. This organization was probably an outgrowth of the older Minden Church known as the Giessenberg Church at Hallsville and it was at these churches that Nicholas and his family attended religious worship. Our cousin, and one of his descendants, the Reverend Doctor Byron Fake, (148) preached there when our family (193) visited them at Fords Bush in 1899.

Nicholas was said to be a great horse fancier, always possessing one of the fleetest horses to be found in that vicinity and never allowed anyone to pass him on the road. In politics he was a Federalist and later, a Whig.

While he remained a farmer all of his life, he seldom did any physical work himself, at least this is the story handed down in the family. My grandfather who remembered him said he was always dressed in linen ruffled shirts, a swallow-tail coat and knee breeches with silver buckles. At the time of his death he had a slave which my grandfather often spoke of as a hard working and faithful servant. His grandchildren say he made them "toe the mark" in other words he was very strict with them and allowed no nonsense. The silver buckles are still in the possession of one of his descendants.

His wife's father was captured by the Indians in the War of the Revolution and went some days without food save a small piece of venison and the bark of trees. Some Frenchmen bought him from the Indians and set him free.

Great Granddaughter of Adam Fake (11) and furnished to A. J. Fake in 1936. Some of the names and dates are taken from records of John Ray furnished by the Veterans' Administration at Washington.

In Landmarks of Rensselaer County by George Baker Anderson, 1897, it appears that John Fake, the head of this family, was an Ensign in the 45th Regiment New York Militia in the year 1809, in 1811 he was a Lieutenant and in 1812 a Captain in that Regiment. He was present at the invasion of Plattsburgh. The Veterans' Administration state in a letter, that his widow Susannah, was allowed 160 acres of bounty land in full satisfaction for his services on an application made by her in 1864, at which time she was about seventy-one years of age and residing in Cherry Valley, Winnebago County, Illinois. In 1878 she was back at Brunswick in the Town of Pittstown, New York. She and her daughter Rebecca Maria are buried in the Brick Church Burial Ground at that place.

9. Peter Fake was born on his father's farm on the Northern Turnpike near Tomhannock in the Town of Pittstown July 9, 1782, and died at Bacon Hill, New York on August 22, 1837. He married Nancy Ray and lived at Pittstown for some years moving later to Bacon Hill. He was, like his father, John George, a blacksmith. There were four children of this marriage:

In 1817 Peter Fake was chairman of the Trustees of School District No. 12. The school house stands today (1941) abandoned and passing into decay on the northerly side of Route 40A. It is nearly opposite a lane leading to the farm of our first ancestor John George (1).

10. Jacob Fake was born on his father's farm on the Northern Turnpike near Tomhannock in the Town of Pittstown June 4th, 1785 and lived there until his death on February 22, 1816. He married Olive Francisco of that place and she died November 25, 1865. Their grave stones were still standing in 1941 in a much neglected cemetery of the Lutheran Church at Melrose, a few feet off of Route 40A and a short distance from the ancestral farm. Jacob's headstone recites that he was aged 30 years 8 months and 18 days. "He was a kind parent and an affectionate husband". Olive's headstone recites that she was the wife of Jacob Fake and that she died November 25, 1865 age 75 years 4 months and 21 days. They were living with our first ancestor on his farm and the widow and children continued on the farm until after the death of John George Fake (1) in 1821.

There were four children of this marriage and they were provided for in the Will of John George Fake (1) see page 32.

11. Adam Fake was born on his father's farm on the Northern Turnpike near Tomhannock in the Town of Pittstown, July 31, 1788 and died in the Town of Gorham, Ontario County, New York on May 10, 1868. His father's bible gives his birth date as 1788, see page 69, but his tombstone says 1792. He married first Sarah (Sally) Francisco a granddaughter of John and Sarah (Mandeville) Francisco. She was born August 31, 1792 in or near the Town of Pittstown and died at Gorham November 1, 1836. There were six children of this marriage:

- 44. Adam b. d.
- 45. George Henry b. Jan. 27, 1811 d. Apr. 11, 1879
- 46. Elizabeth b. June 1, 1814 d. May 4, 1742
- 47. Jane Hilda b. Aug. 31, 1817 d. Dec. 28, 1818
- 48. John Jacob b. Aug. 14, 1820 d.
- 49. Warren B. b. May 16, 1823 d.

He married second Catherine Francisco who was born at or near Pittstown May 8, 1806, and died June 16, 1888. There was one child of this marriage:

- 50. Sarah Jane b. Feb. or May 6, 1840
d. Aug. 14, 1911.

At the time of the death of John George Fake (1) in 1821, his son Adam Fake, (11) was undoubtedly living with him or perhaps on the westerly one-half of the ancestral farm.

On November 11, 1817, ten days before John George Fake (1) (George Fake) executed his Will, he made a Warranty Deed to his son Adam (11) conveying to Adam (11), a one-half or equal moiety of, in and to the whole 200 acre ancestral farm. This farm was no doubt being run as two separate farms at the time since John George (1) refers in his Will to the one-half of the farm on which he then lived and devised to Olive, widow of his deceased son Jacob (10) one-third of that half for her life and two-thirds of that half to her children. The Will is entirely silent as to the remaining one-half of the farm on which he did not live. It is interesting to note that the deed to Adam (11), while dated November 11, 1817, was not formally acknowledged and recorded until May 5, 1823 when the disputes before the Surrogate were pending. I have found no deed or deeds of record to clear this situation up. If it ever becomes necessary for anyone to obtain deeds for the half undisposed of hundreds of signatures would be required. However the statute of limitations at this late day fortunately puts such questions at rest. John George (1) having disposed of a one-half interest in the half of the farm on which he lived to Adam (11) before he died, left only a half to be divided between his daughter-in-law Olive and her children, and not the whole of the half on which he lived.

On June 28, 1826 Adam (11) and his wife conveyed the undivided one-half of both farms to James Green who lived across the road to the north but the deed was not recorded until 1840. Before that however, it appears that John Francisco, probably a brother of Olive had made a deed to her conveying the whole 200 acres. This deed dated and recorded October 20, 1825, recites that John Francisco obtained title by a deed from Moses Warren, Esq. Sheriff dated October 11, 1825, but there is no such sheriff's deed on record.

There is a Certificate of Sale however filed in the County Clerk's office. Question therefore arises as to what the Sheriff's sale was based on and whether Adam's interest was affected by that sale. These questions are interesting and some time in the future I may make an exhaustive attempt to answer them just to satisfy my own curiosity. The statute of limitations precludes any thought of gain for any of us even if we were mercenary. Back in those years there was a careless disregard for the advantages of recording deeds and in many instances the record titles are left with lapses when undoubtedly deeds were given at the time and lost. For example the first deed to our ancestor was not recorded until after the lapse of twenty-six years from its date.

NOTE: There was another George Fake, the captain of an English vessel who settled in San Francisco in 1850. His descendants were still living in Oakland, California in 1934. They trace their ancestry in England for several generations back of the captain. Obviously this family has no connection with John George Feick (1) from whom we are descended.

This family resided at Lansingburgh, a suburb of Troy, where Colonel Fake occupied a position of prominence and respect. His home, one of the finest in the Village, was the scene of many social gatherings. In 1845 he was the Clerk of the Village and from 1843 to 1856 he was Village President. A large land owner and investor in real estate he was instrumental in founding the Rensselaer County Bank in 1853 and became its President. On July 13, 1872 the bank was obliged to discontinued business through the irregularities of one of its employees and it will ever redound to the credit of the Colonel that he saw to it that all the creditors were satisfied and largely out of his own personal estate. I have been unable to ascertain how he obtained the rank of Colonel but assume it was conferred upon him for services in the militia during the old field days when citizens met rather informally for military drill. Gibson who was born June 4th, 1802 and died November 15, 1878 aged 76 years 5 months 11 days. They were farmers and members of the Lutheran Church at Fords Bush. He died December 7, 1883. They are buried in Mount Hope Cemetery at that place. His 90 acre farm was deeded to him by his father, Nicholas (4) on November 10, 1837, Liber 40 page 470. He gave back a life estate to his father by deed Liber 41 page 473. He, like his father, was a fancier of both draft and speedy horses. In early life John Fake (21) was a Whig and later a staunch Republican. He was a member of the State Militia in the early part of the Nineteenth Century. His reputation for honesty in his dealings and integrity of character were dwelt upon by those who knew him long after his passing. And on the day of his funeral the entire countryside gathered to pay their respects. He devised his farm to his son, Abram. It is believed that this Church was an outgrowth of the older Geissenberg Church at Hallsville.

Before the opening of the Erie Canal it was his custom, like that of his neighbors, to take his farm produce to market by horse and wagon to Albany, New York, some sixty miles distant and there barter his produce for merchandise or cash. My grandmother, one of his daughters-in-law, confiding in me on one occasion, said he was a very hard working farmer himself and drove his help hard to keep up with him; that he was extremely tight fisted and close with his children, working them such long hours they branched out for themselves as soon as they could get away. Needless to say he prospered as a farmer and left a nice estate for his children at his death. Looking at the painting of him hanging here in one of our upper rooms, I think I see a spark of good

63. Augusta Fake daughter of (16) was born at Lansingburgh, now part of the City of Troy, On March 9, 1835. She married Alfred W. McMurray. For many years he was engaged in the business of manufacturing brushes which had been established by his father William McMurray in 1818. This family occupied a position of leadership in the religious, civic and economic affairs of Northern New York. They resided throughout their married life in the home at 613 Third Avenue, which had been the residence of Mrs. McMurray's father, Colonel John S. Fake and which Mr. McMurray modernized and greatly enlarged. It was through the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Alfred McMurray that the powder horn of our Ancestor John George Fake was preserved and mounted on its blue velvet base and she and her husband cherished and cared for the paintings, furniture, bible and clock referred to on pages 49 to 70 hereof. 103. Augustus M. Fake son of (23) was born on his father's farm, the old Nicholas Fake homestead, in Minden on May 10, 1838. He left the farm at an early age and entered on a mercantile career. For many years he, with R. H. Shearer, was engaged in the dry goods business at Fort Plain. Eventually he became the sole owner of the business and continued therein until his death. He resided in a beautiful home on the hill in Fort Plain overlooking a large expanse of the Mohawk Valley where our family visited him in 1899. He married Anna Stern's of Cherry Valley, New York, and she died on April 4, 1930. I do not have the date of his death but he predeceased his wife by many years. He was a director of the Fort Plain National Bank, President of the Board of Trade and President of the Street Fair Association. There were no children.

My father used to tell of the experiences which he as a small boy had at his uncle Gus's wedding. It was in the winter time, bitter cold, and there had been a heavy fall of snow. Uncle Gus clad in his wedding garments and all dolled up, started out with my father in a horse and cutter for the ceremony. They had a long distance to drive and Uncle Gus was intercepted several times on the road by friends who retired with him to divers taverns to warm up. On leaving the last one, the horse showed considerable spirit. He was a spirited horse anyway and shooting out like a streak he ran away and over-turned the cutter leaving my father and his uncle buried in a snow drift. Extricating themselves with the help of others who came up, they proceeded to the Stern's homestead where they all went to work in the kitchen on Uncle Gus and his clothes to make him presentable. It was father's job to grease his uncle's boots on this momentous occasion. It was a custom in those days to force the older brothers to dance in a tub if they had not married before a younger brother. One or both of Uncle Gus's brothers were not married and after the ceremony there were high jinks forcing those brothers to dance in a tub which the men brought in from outside.

104. Henry Lansing Fake son of (23) was born on his father's farm, the old Nicholas Fake homestead in Minden, on January 21, 1830. He died while visiting his son Leonidas at Chatham, New York on December 31, 1897. He married Margaret Elwood daughter of Peter Elwood at the large brick homestead in Freys Bush on December 18, 1850.

Shortly after their marriage they bought a farm at Freys Bush, Montgomery County, where he actively engaged in farming for some years, later selling it, they purchased the Dominie Wieting farm at Seward near Hyndsville, a few miles from Cobleskill, Schoharie County, where he continued farming until he entered the produce and hop business at Cobleskill. They purchased the Greenwald place on South Grand Street, Cobleskill and resided there in later years. They had a sugar bush on the Wieting place and in thinning it out he felled a curley maple tree which was sawed into planks and from which the local wagon-maker constructed a beautiful secretary now in the possession of his daughter, Mrs. I. B. Powell of Greenwich, New York. Lansing Fake was a man of deep religious convictions and a careful student of the bible. He was a licensed lay preacher of the Methodist Church, a tall man of rugged features with a deep rich voice, a natural public speaker, he was known for the strength and inspiration of his sermons.

In early boyhood he told me of the old powder horn which he had seen as a boy somewhere in Rensselaer County and which he told me he would locate and get for me if he could.

During the Civil War he was a member of a local volunteer company commanded by Peter Fake. The company was not called to active service however. He was a Whig and later a staunch Republican. At the time of his residence in Schoharie County, he was one of the very few Republicans in that Democratic stronghold where the sympathies were strongly with the south and against President Lincoln.

There were nine children of this marriage, seven of whom reached maturity:

The first part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the function $f(x)$ defined by the equation $f(x) = \sum_{n=0}^{\infty} a_n x^n$, where a_n are the coefficients of the power series. It is shown that $f(x)$ is a continuous function of x and that it satisfies the functional equation $f(x) = f(x^2)$. The second part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the function $g(x)$ defined by the equation $g(x) = \sum_{n=0}^{\infty} b_n x^n$, where b_n are the coefficients of the power series. It is shown that $g(x)$ is a continuous function of x and that it satisfies the functional equation $g(x) = g(x^2)$.

The third part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the function $h(x)$ defined by the equation $h(x) = \sum_{n=0}^{\infty} c_n x^n$, where c_n are the coefficients of the power series. It is shown that $h(x)$ is a continuous function of x and that it satisfies the functional equation $h(x) = h(x^2)$. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the function $k(x)$ defined by the equation $k(x) = \sum_{n=0}^{\infty} d_n x^n$, where d_n are the coefficients of the power series. It is shown that $k(x)$ is a continuous function of x and that it satisfies the functional equation $k(x) = k(x^2)$.

C; F; McMURRAY,
HEAD OF FORMER
TROY FIRM, DEAD.

The death of Clarence F. McMurray, former Troy Manufacturer and Vice President of the Western Cartridge Co., occurred last evening at his residence, 950 Park Avenue, New York. Mr. McMurray, who had been in poor health for two years, contracted pneumonia several days ago.

Mr. McMurray was born in Brooklyn 77 years ago, but came to Troy with his parents, while he was a child. He lived in this city for the greater part of his life going to New York about 20 years ago.

Mr. McMurray received his early education in the old Troy Academy and was graduated from Yale University with the class of 1880. After his graduation he returned to Troy, where he became engaged in business. For a number of years he was head of C. F. McMurray & Co., manufacturers of machinery, who conducted their factory on Center Island. After that firm went out of business he became connected with the Western Cartridge Co., in New York, serving as Vice President until the time of his death, although he retired from active business about four years ago.

Mr. McMurray was a member of the Essex Country Club of Manchester, Mass., Chevy Chase Club of Washington, D. C., and the Ardsley Club of Ardsley.

The survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Sydney G. de Kay of New York, and a brother, Charles B. McMurray of 613 Thidd Avenue, Lansingburgh. The funeral will be held from the home of his brother tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Chauncey V. Kling, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Oakwood Cemetery.

TROY, N. Y. Jan. 25. - Charles Backman McMurray, a trustee of Union College, Schenectady; the Emma Willard School and Russell Sage College, Troy, and the Albany Medical College, died at his home here today after a long illness. He was seventy-four years old.

Mr. McMurray was best known for his association with Union College, of which he had been a trustee since 1912 and acting president in 1922 and 1923. As chairman of the college's committee on buildings and grounds he supervised construction of more than $1,000,000 worth of buildings at Union. He received an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Union in 1929, and last year was awarded its alumni medal for distinguished service.

Anative of Troy, Mr. McMurray attended Troy Academy and then took a scientific course at Union College, from which he was graduated in 1887 after having been president of his class and a member of the varsity baseball and tennis teams. He received a Master of Arts degree from the college in 1898.

After his graduation he became a contractor in Troy and also was associated in business with his father, Alfred Warner McMurray, a manufacturer. At his death he was vice-president of the Troy Trust Company, a trustee of the Troy Savings Bank and the Union National Bank of Troy and chairman of the board of Leonard Hospital, in Troy.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eleanor Beattie, of Schenectady, to whom he was married in 1888, and a daughter, Mrs. Anderson McLeod, of Albany. Funeral services will be held at his home at 2:30 P. M. Saturday and burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Troy.

Announcing that the Union College trustee and executive staff will participate in the funeral services. Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president of the college, said today:

"Charles B. McMurray illustrated a peculiarly American phenomenon, the successful business man who makes a college a principal life interest. He labored for Union College in thought and deed from the time of his graduation fifty-two years ago to the time of his final illness; the college problems were his problems, its triumphs his triumphs. The American college is a monument to such men, who have given the best of their abilities to its support and guidance."

He married Mary Louise Cook of Middleburg, Schoharie County, New York at St. Georges, Staten Island, on February 17, 1879. (She was a direct descendant of Capt. Aaron Cook of Hadley, Mass. and a member of the D. A. R.)

He was educated at the district school in Freys Bush and at the Fort Plain Seminary. His cousins Byron Fake, Byron Elwood and Elsworth Elwood were classmates with him at the Seminary. Upon graduation he moved to Cobleskill, Schoharie County, New York, where he studied pharmacy with Mr. Moses Dillenbeck and was admitted to practice pharmacy in the State of New York and later in New Jersey. In 1877 he entered the mercantile business, wholesaling hay in New York City. His partner disappeared with all the cash assets leaving him to settle with the creditors which fortunately he was able to do in a few months. He then was employed again as a druggist, at Morristown, New Jersey, where he remained until some time in 1878 when he returned to New York City, entering the produce commission business in which he remained until he retired in 1924. He was a partner for many years in the firm of Wright and Winsor at 96 Chambers Street and later at 12 Harrison Street. He was a member of the New York Mercantile Exchange and one of its officers for many years. He took up residence in Rutherford, New Jersey in 1882. As an active Republican, President of the Rutherford Republican Club and a leader in civic and patriotic movements, his opinions were much sought after and highly respected. He was a man of strict honor and integrity and an active member of the Rutherford Presbyterian Church. He set a high example as a cultured Christian gentleman and a good father.

He and his wife always kept an open house and were seldom without relatives or friends visiting them from upper New York State. It was not unusual for them to have twelve or more at the table for dinner and often they came without notice.

284. Guy Leverne Fake, son of (193) was born at his grandfather's home in Cobleskill, New York on November 15, 1879. His parents were resident at Morristown, New Jersey at the time. They became residents of Rutherford, New Jersey shortly after his birth and he remains a resident of Rutherford to this date. He was baptized by his Uncle, the Reverend David W. Lawrence at the Second Lutheran Church in West Sand Lake, Rensselaer County, New York on August 22, 1880. He was educated in the public school at Rutherford and was preparing for college at the New York Preparatory School when the Spanish American War broke out. He left school and enlisted as a private in Co. L, 2nd N. J. Vol. Infantry. He was taken down with typhus and malaria fevers remaining in the Army hospital at Pablo Beach, Florida long after peace was declared and his regiment had returned home. He entered the law offices of Shafer & Conkling at Rutherford in 1899, where he read law until he entered the New York University Law School in 1902, receiving the degree of L.L.B. from that institution in 1904.

He is a charter member and one of the organizers of The John T. Hilton Camp, United Spanish American War Veterans at Rutherford, in which he held the position of Chaplain and later Camp Commander. He was Judge Advocate of the Department of New Jersey in the organization for many years. In World War 1 he was Fuel Administrator for Bergen County. Appointed to a captaincy in the Army and orders revoked on Armistice Day before being sworn in.

He was admitted to the New Jersey Bar as an Attorney-at-Law and Solicitor in Chancery at the February term 1903, before he had finished his studies at the law school. At the February term 1906, he was admitted to the Bar as a Counsellor-at-law and Master in Chancery. He was nominated for the Assembly at the Bergen County Republican Convention in 1906 and again in 1907 and was elected each time, serving in the Sessions of 1907 and 1908. In 1909 he was nominated by Governor John Franklin Fort and confirmed by the Senate as Judge of the District Court of the Second Judicial District of Bergen County. He was reappointed on the nomination of Governor James Fielder in 1914, in which year he was admitted to the Bar of the United States Supreme Court at Washington. On the nomination of Governor Walter E. Edge in 1919, he was appointed to a third term to the Bergen County District Court, serving all told fifteen years on that bench. He was appointed a New Jersey Supreme Court Commissioner on June 23, 1926. In February, 1929, he was nominated by President Calvin Coolidge as Judge of the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, and confirmed by the Senate on February 12th of that year, which position he now fills.

He is a member of the following organizations: John T. Hilton Camp No. 3, U. S. W. V; Boiling Springs Lodge No. 152 F. & A. M. ; Sons of the American Revolution; Nu Epsilon Chapter Phi Gamma Delta at New York University, and Honorary Member of Theta Sigma Lambda Fraternity at New York University School of Law; First Presbyterian Church, Rutherford; New Jersey Historical Society; Schoharie County Historical Society, New York; Honorary Member Rensselaer County, New York Historical Society and Honorary Member Bergen County, New Jersey Bar Association; an organizer and charter member of the Rutherford Rotary Club of which he now is an honorary member.

On October 10, 1905, he married Grace Elizabeth Mucklow, daughter of the Reverend William Brereton Mucklow and Catherine, his wife, nee Barber, at their home on Albany Avenue, Hartford, Connecticut.

377. Laverne Mucklow Fake son of (284) was born at the Fake Homestead, Rutherford, New Jersey, on August 24, 1906, attended the schools of Rutherford and graduated from the high school there in the class of 1924. He entered Rutgers College and graduated there with the degree of Bachelor of Letters, Class of 1928, entered New York University Law School and graduated with the Class of 1931, receiving the degree of Juris Doctor. He was admitted to the New Jersey Bar as an attorney in 1932 and as a Counsellor in 1937, having been appointed a Master in Chancery by the Chancellor in 1936.

He is practicing law with offices at Westwood and Paramus in Bergen County, New Jersey, and holds the position of Recorder in Paramus and Borough Counsel at Montvale, New Jersey. He is a member of Zeta Psi; Past Master of Bergen Grange #129; Chairman of the Troop Committee of Troop 137 at Paramus; Chairman Paramus Branch, Ridgewood Chapter of American Red Cross and a Member of the First Presbyterian Church at Rutherford, New Jersey, and a Member and Officer of the Republican Club at Paramus.

He married Winifred Dole, daughter of William Herbert Dole and Hillen Miller Dole of West Orange, New Jersey, on August 6, 1932. The Doles are descended from the first missionery to the Hawiian Islands and the family remained there until William Herbert came to California as a young man with his father and mother and brothers and sisters. William Herbert and all the brothers and sisters of the family, twelve in number, are still living and each is a college graduate. Winifred was born at West Orange, New Jersey on April 21, 1912, attended the schools there and graduated from the West Orange High School with the Class of 1929 and attended the State Teachers College at Jersey City for two years, 1930 and 1931.

Their children are:

391. Kenneth Leverne b. June 22, 1933

392. Peter Herbert b. July 9, 1936

393. Lansing b. Apr. 4, 1941

394. Elaine b. Sept. 20, 1943

They reside on a small farm at 1104 Linwood Avenue, Paramus, New Jersey.

378. Elwood Brereton Fake son of (284) was born at his father's home adjacent to the Fake Homestead at Rutherford, New Jersey on March 21, 1909, attended the Rutherford Schools, finishing the second year of high school there when he entered the Rutgers Preparatory School at New Brunswick, New Jersey. While in his senior year at that institution and before graduation, he entered a competitive examination and won entrance and a four year scholarship at Rutgers College, entering college without finishing his preparatory course. Thereafter, the preparatory school issued to him a diploma of graduation with their class of 1929. Like his brother, he was affiliated with Zeta Psi at Rutgers. He left college after successfully completing his Sophomore year and entered into business. He was engaged in the insurance business at Newark, New Jersey for some years and in June of 1943 was appointed as Appeal Referee, a member of and Secretary of the Board of Review of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of New Jersey under Civil Service in which position he is now engaged. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Rutherford, and a member of the Republican Party.

On January 2, 1937 he married Frances Geraldine Herron, daughter of Joseph Arthur Herron and Helen Ryan Herron. She was born at Kearny, New Jersey on September 16, 1915.

Their children are:

395. Guyanne Herron b. Mar. 29, 1938
